Dr. James F. Cooper began his medical practice with his brother, Dr. O.C. Cooper in Bryan in 1955. He was a family doctor who would make house calls as well as being a surgeon with St. Joseph Hospital and specialized in aviation medicine. He was involved with NASA serving as an FAA Senior Aviation Medical Examiner until his retirement in 2014.

Mary Hanna, 91, graduated from SFA State College with a degree in chemistry. She returned to school in her forties after rearing her family to continue her education at TAMU in the field of microbiology and was a food microbiologist there until her retirement.

She pursued her love of cooking, bird watching and quilting in retirement.

Herbert G. Thompson, was recruited to Texas A&M College in 1951 where he served as the Head of Marketing in the Business School, later bringing in the first Dean of the School of Business. Hunting, fishing, working on clocks and traveling continued to be his loves upon retirement.
